

Reading A Time to Kill for Contemporary Lit, seniors Lacy Schutt and Shirley Curtiss were very into the story. The two girls have been friends throughout high school.

Talking a walk back from Chemistry were juniors Katie Swindell and Carrie Welsh. They seemed happy to be leaving that class, wonder why? Behind them, Michael Todd wishes they would get out of his way!

Top: Stopping in senior hallway to check his phone was Matt Nunn. Matt plans to pursue a degree in education after graduation.

Middle top: Sisters Ashley and Tiffanie Swazey met for a bonding moment in the hallway. Ashley graduates this year while Tiffanie has another year to go.

Middle bottom: Sitting in the hallway working wasn't where you expected to see Tyler Duke most days but he was caught in the act making up some missed work.

Bottom: Students hang outside of the lunch room during first lunch.

Stopping by Brooklyn Horan's locker were friends Kayla Sykora and Jared Laughlin. These three seniors had a great year and tried to make the most out of the time they had left together.

People

They come and go...

All throughout your high school experience people will come and go. Every student will see this, and will go on wondering about what they could have said to that one random person during their experience. People will ask, should I have said this? Should I have done that? Maybe you should have said, "hello," to that one person, or possibly tried to get to know them before the opportunity had come to an end. Look back on those moments well, momentum carries on the life you live. Take those chances, and don't regret them because they might never come again. There is only one high school opportunity in store for everyone. It is a building block of your life that establishes friends, loved ones, and good times. The people you will meet are a part of life, and a part of you. There are 1200 people you may have passed by. Who did you choose to get to know?

-Codi Sheppard

Back row: Chase Hummel, Aaron Sponseller, Alyse Falsetta, Carolyn Rehm, Jenna McGuire, Ryan Todd, Timi Ohumolade. Middle row: Lilia Phelps, Abbey Benchley, Andy Brockman, Ashley Goffnett, Ben Willis, Joe Covarrubias, Matt Kreiner. Front row: Brandon Higgins show off their SENIOR pride for color wars day.

Far Left: Kanyo makes a joke at the Homecoming assembly, while Andy Brockman and Nick Cesena try to keep up with him.

Middle: Students sat outside the lunch room during second lunch waiting for the bell to ring for class. Students were not allowed to leave the main hallway during lunch time.

Left: Checking the shots he just took for yearbook class was senior Sam Guo. Sam participated in the 1st trimester of yearbook.